Going back to school can be a stressful and struggling moment for parents and guardians. Watching their children grow up and becoming independent. The feeling can be unbearable and overwhelming. With the mixed emotions of Anxiety, Fear and Loss. Here are some helpful tips and tricks to help with those overwhelming thoughts and feeling of your little ones leaving the nest and beginning their own little path of kindergarten here is what you can do:

1. Ensure your child has been full rested and has eaten their breakfast as it is the most important meal of the day!
2. Stay positive and think of happy thoughts as this is the proudest moment for your child.
3. Encourage and excite them on what they will be learning inside class.
4. Don't leave without saying goodbye and keep it brief and momentarily.

Hopefully these help you and your child.

Be Sure to stop by at the Maskwacis Cree Senior High School (Formerly Ninishkonahk Secondary School) for a fun celebration for Ermineskins students for back to school. This is a great opportunity for these young students to get re-acquainted with their fellow students. Summer is nearly over, and they will soon be in their classrooms continuing their studies once again.

TORNADO SAFETY ADVISORY

As of late you may have noticed a sudden surge in tornado warnings and or watches, we would like to clarify the difference between the two as well as what you can do both to prepare in advance for a tornado and what to do during an active tornado. The key difference between a tornado warning and a tornado watch is a tornado watch indicates a high probability of a tornado happening while a tornado warning is alerting you to a tornado in progress. When a tornado warning is issued you typically have around 15 minutes to find cover. A tornado preparedness kit should meet your 10 basic disaster survival needs, those being; water, non-perishable food, breathing protection, first aid, shelter, warmth, communication, light, tools, sanitation and hygiene. We have taken the liberty of providing an example checklist below.

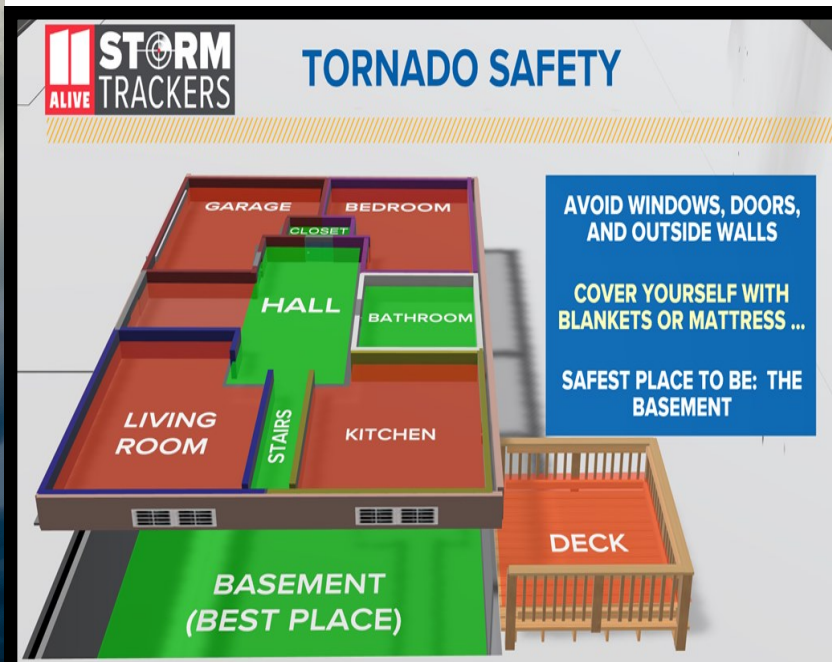

In the event that a tornado is approaching it is advised that you take shelter on the ground floor or preferably basement of the building you are in while ensuring you are away from any windows or doors to the outside. If you are driving or are in a mobile home seek shelter elsewhere, over 50% of all deaths caused by tornado happen in mobile homes. If no nearby shelter is available attempt to find a ditch and lay in it keeping your body as low to the ground as possible. Protect your head as best you can from any flying debris and be prepared to move if needed. If possible avoid buildings with widespan roofs such as gymnasiums, churches, or auditoriums as those buildings have a high possibility of collapsing. If such a building is your only available shelter try to take cover under a sturdy structure such as a table or desk. To report a tornado if you are able please call 1-800-239-0484

Ribbon Skirt Making

On August 9th, 2022 K.K.I (Kanawemahwasowin Kamik) hosted one of their many events at the N.O.K (Neyaskweyahk Okimaw Kamik) building. Community members were instructed on how to create ribbon skirts. The skirts are traditionally worn and sewn with ribbons as they had in the past. Marleigh Cutarm one of the participants created her first ribbon skirt and also created a matching ribbon skirt for her baby girl. They both have matching ribbon skirts to wear at traditional events and ceremonies.

CONTINUED INTERVIEWS OF THE POPE VISIT

Survivor Seeks Denunciation of Doctrine of Discovery

By Jeffrey Heyden-Kaye

Witnessing Pope Francis's apology to Canada's First Nations for the legacy of the Indian Residential Schools was important to survivor Cara Currie Hall.

Cara, who is originally from Maskwacis but lives in the United States, told reporters just days before the Pope's apology on July 25, that it was important for her to be a witness.

"My family comes from here, my mother, father, from here, and my grandparents are all from here," said Cara.

As a family member of parents who suffered under the Indian Residential School system (Cara was also a day-school student), Cara educated German television reporters about why Pope Francis's apology was so significant. She pointed to the Doctrine of Discovery, a Papal Bull written in 1493 that set the future of all the world's Indigenous Peoples including those on Turtle Island.

Cara wanted the Pope to renounce the doctrine. "It was the basis of all of the racist legislation around the world," she told reporters.

The doctrine allowed the taking of lands and resources so long as the inhabitants were also turned to the Catholic faith.

"That allowed governments to take our lands and resources it did not acknowledge us as human beings," said Cara.

One line in the doctrine confirms her comments: "... that the health of souls be cared for and that barbarous nations be overthrown and brought to the faith itself."

Within the doctrine there is mention of the lands and their precious resources and the need to take advantage of those resources.

For Cara, the presence of Prime Minister Trudeau, who was not asked to speak, and Mary Simon, the Governor General of Canada and representative of the Queen, was also significant.

Her parents and grandparents had no choice but to attend an Indian Residential School because it was a legislative decision. These were people who were removed from their families for extended periods of time and who lived in atrocious conditions, added Cara.

"To hear the Pope and to know he's coming here for this sort of business is critically important, once again to correct history and to bring justice," she stated.

The significance of Pope Francis's visit cannot be understated. Cara reminded reporters that the Pope and Catholic church carry a large amount of authority. She sees this type of action as a benefit for future generations such as for her children and grandchildren. "They will not have to live with that oppression."

"We are people that are spiritual, we understand our relationship with the creator. We are people of the land. We know we have souls, and all people do," said Cara.

Learning About Her Parents' Past

Cara learned after her mother passed away the suffering her parents faced.

Cara's father went to Indian Residential School when he was five and he was raped by a nun, but he was never able to articulate what happened to him. Her mother was beaten as a young girl, so violently that she was knocked unconscious.

"And she was put in an infirmary," explained Cara. "And this is in her record."

"I wondered, what could a little child do that warranted something so violent?" asked Cara.

The significance of an apology is another thing that cannot be understated. When Cara explained to her mother that then Prime Minister Stephen Harper apologized to Canada’s Indigenous Peoples, it was a significant moment.

“She bawled, she cried. She cried so deeply she couldn’t breathe,” said Cara. “She was trying to catch her breath and this sobbing was such a deep cry.”

Her mother explained that she always wanted to have the chance to tell someone what they took from her. Cara felt hope and said that God had not forgotten them.

“We’re strong and resilient and the DNA of warriors runs through us,” said Cara.

Making the Journey Home

The very action of packing up and returning to Maskwacis was difficult because it meant revisiting old pains and being triggered by the stories of the past.

She reminded reporters that some people would prefer not to see the Pope.

“They don’t want the apology. They don’t want him to come,” she said.

However, the apology will lead to action, or it should, stated

Cara. “We need to move from apologies into action and we need to be able to find a way within ourselves to move from trauma, especially survivors.”

“The depth of the trauma should not be underestimated.”

Cara wants to see a full implementation of the Truth and Reconciliation Calls to Action. Pope Francis’s apology is number 58. Repudiating the Doctrine of Discovery is also on the list of Calls to Action and is mentioned no less than four different times in the Calls to Action.

Some efforts in those Calls to Action has been made. Cara wants to see further action to work in good faith with Indigenous leaders as mutual partners to dismantle past legislative action against Canada’s Indigenous Peoples. She’d like to see that action in the United States as well.

Despite anticipation for the renunciation of the Doctrine of Discovery, Pope Francis did not make mention of it during his visit. However, he did admit in an interview with reporters on his return to Rome that his descriptions of the assimilation of Canada’s Indigenous Peoples in Indian Residential Schools were like genocide.

SAMSON POWWOW

The Samson powwow will be happening this weekend at the Bear Park; showcasing our dancers, singers and the spectacular sights and sounds of the powwow celebrations. There will also be hand games and specials for those wanting to compete and show their talents and traditional skills. Travelers will come from all over the province and states to visit and spend time watching the dancers and their beautifully crafted and hand sewn regalia dancing to our traditional drums and songs; as our powwows are meant to bring us all together to celebrate in the circle of life. Another powwow to visit will be hosted down south in the Siksika Nation. On August 10th, 2022 Louis Bull hosted a powwow for their nation and celebrated their elder Solomon Bull's 82nd birthday.
